I really like this app as a whole. I have so much fun playing with my pictures. The color and function of the gray works great and so many cold adhesives, stacks, and filters. I paid $4.99 and I was just a little disappointed. The only problem I had was to recoloring, I was lucky if it really appeared on the picture as the color I chose. For example, I picked orange and I got blue. That really needs to be fixed or better explained possible. But if I'm not trying to get the right color, it's fun to change things. I just started using this app and it wouldn't allow me to access my pictures @. I paid $3.99 for what? To take a picture with this app so I can edit it? That's crazy!! The icing on the cake is, there is no information or helps the @. But what really chased my hide was I went to another app and it started just like this, and I could get into my picture, but wait, it says I have to pay $1.99 to have unlimited access @. APA, I've paid twice that for this app. I don't understand how they have so many positive ratings. I have come to the conclusion this app has ripped the rest and I am a suck that falls for him. I'll also bet my reviews will be locked behind the same door of my picture, never seen @. Is there any way to get my money back @ App FREE not to buy, completely free of charge. I was always careful that I didn't download a free app that would then charge me after a few days. I'm okay with the free trial period, and if I like the app I'll keep it and know what I'll be charged, otherwise I'll know to cancel it, and when to cancel it. Most are 7 days or 30 days. This one charges me $3.99 after four days, without if it's in the application description, it must be hidden or verbiage added after I download. Shady, confusing, dishonest. I have requested a refund; I'll update here. If it's a quick refund without a fight, I'll revise my reviews, otherwise I'll struggle, I won't give up, and I'll post reviews and warnings everywhere. Repeatedly. Over and over again. Developers, a limited personally in effect pixel, indicate that app privacy practices may include the handling of data as described below.
